GENERAL INFORMATION

COMMUNITY COLLEGE LEAGUE OF CALIFORNIA

The Community College League of California is a public, nonprofit corporation. Its voluntary membership consists of the 73 community college districts in California. Within the League are two major organizations that share a common mission, staff, and fiscal resources: the California Community College Trustees (CCCT) and the Chief Executive Officers of the California Community Colleges (CEOCCC). The CCCT and CEOCCC are led by elected policy boards.

The League Board of Directors consists of the officers of the CCCT board and the CEOCCC board, as well as representatives from the CCC Classified Senate.

The mission of the Community College League of California is to support the local California community college district boards and their chief executive officers to:

- Exercise high quality and ethical leadership
- Have sufficient resources to achieve the comprehensive California community colleges mission, and
- Function within a climate that permits the maximum degree possible of local control and authority.

CCCT BOARD

The CCCT board of the League has 22 members. Twenty-one are elected by the 73 local community college district boards of trustees and the student member is elected by the local districts' student board members at the League's Student Trustee Workshop.

The CCCT board meets five times a year, usually in Sacramento. Meetings are generally scheduled in September, November (during the League's Annual Convention), January, March or April, and June.

STUDENT TRUSTEE MEMBER

The CCCT board student trustee is a voting member. The student member is not viewed as "the representative" of the student trustees of the districts. Instead, the student trustee is seen as a member of the board who brings a student perspective to the debates and deliberations. Therefore, the student member is not required or expected to develop and implement communication with student trustees.

LEAGUE STAFF

The policy of the CCCT and CEOCCC boards are implemented by League staff under the direction of the President and Chief Executive Officer of the League.
