CALIFORNIA COMMUNITY COLLEGE TRUSTEES BOARD
STUDENT TRUSTEE MEMBER
GENERAL INFORMATION

COMMUNITY COLLEGE LEAGUE OF CALIFORNIA

The Community College League of California is a public, nonprofit corporation. Its voluntary membership consists of the 73 local community college districts in California. Within the League are two major organizations that share a common mission, staff, and fiscal resources: the California Community College Trustees (CCCT) and the Chief Executive Officers of the California Community Colleges (CEOCCC). The CCCT and CEOCCC are led by elected policy boards.

The League Board of Directors consists of the officers of the CCCT board and the CEOCCC board, as well as representatives from the CCC Classified Senate.

The mission of the Community College League of California is to support the local California community college district boards and their chief executive officers to:

- Exercise high quality and ethical leadership
- Have sufficient resources to achieve the comprehensive California community colleges mission, and
- Function within a climate that permits the maximum degree possible of local control and authority.

CCCT BOARD

The CCCT Board consists of twenty one (21) members elected by the membership, including the elected officers of the CCCT, and a student trustee member elected by the local districts' student board members at the League's Student Trustee Workshop.

The CCCT board meets five times a year, usually in Sacramento. Meetings are generally scheduled in September, November (during the League's Annual Convention), January, April, and June.

STUDENT TRUSTEE MEMBER

The CCCT board student trustee is a voting member. The student member is not viewed as "the representative" of the student trustees of the districts. Instead, the student trustee is seen as a member of the board who brings a student perspective to the debates and deliberations. Therefore, the student member is not required or expected to develop and implement communication with student trustees.

LEAGUE STAFF

The policy of the CCCT and CEOCCC boards are implemented by League staff under the direction of the President and Chief Executive Officer of the League.

What do you see as the major issues and activities relating to community college students that should be considered by CCCT in the next year?

An issue that I have witnessed in my community college district is the lack of resources and information on what a student should do when they are lost. We need to consider creating guided pathways for students from every background, along with pushing for their success financially and mentally.

What do you feel you can contribute in these areas?

I feel like I can contribute different methods and strategies to give out the resources that I believe community college students need as a student myself. I am able to see through my perspective and as well as the ones of my peers to see what works and what doesn't.

COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT ACTIVITIES

Within my time in the LACCD, I have engaged and supported students in many capacities. One such example is the work I do in the African American Outreach Initiative (LACCD-AAOI). We are tasked with running initiatives to support Black/African American students within the district through district events, student resources, and more. I have also served as the student representative for the Race, Equity, and Social Justice Center (LACC-RESJC), tasked with representing marginalized students among faculty and college leadership at LACC (Los Angeles Community college).

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ACTIVITIES

During my time at LACC, I have served as the Associated Student Government's (ASG) Executive of Clubs. Here, I developed a strong relationship with the college community as a whole. This is where my passion for student involvement within college leadership flourished. My experiences range from event planning and community engagement to basic need resources and helping students in need. Within LA, there is a strong need for humanitarianism, and my experience in ASG enlightened me to the reality.

CIVIC AND COMMUNITY ACTIVITIES

I have served the community in different capacities throughout the years. As an adolescence, I began volunteering at my local dojo in Bakersfield, CA; acting as an assistant instructor and student mentor. Since I moved to Los Angeles, I have started to get more involved in the Inglewood community. Currently, I am a partner of the LABWC (Los Angeles Black Worker Center).

What do you see as the major issues and activities relating to community college students that should be considered by CCCT in the next year?

Due to the restrictions regarding the COVID-19 pandemic, many students have suffered a loss of accessibility regarding hands-on and supplemental instruction in many STEM courses. If the CCCT could lobby for more funding for these courses, students would benefit tremendously.

What do you feel you can contribute in these areas?

My own experience in STEM courses have been extensive and they have been significantly altered due to this lack of hands on assistance especially while trying to learn in a remote environment. I can advocate for other STEM students who have also been deprived of this practical experience.

The scarcity of student engagement in higher decision-making, retention rates, and the communication between students and stakeholders.

What do you see as the major issues and activities relating to community college students that should be considered by CCCT in the next year?

The global pandemic has negatively affected education. Dropping enrollment and retention, limiting classroom interaction, and affecting the mental health among our students. We need to put a re-emphasis on being flexible, adapting with new technology, and bringing students back onto campus. Doing it with safety as our number one priority.

What do you feel you can contribute in these areas?

I will contribute with communication. Communicating our resources. Communicating opportunities. And communicating with how impactful community college can be. Making sure every voice is heard and issues are seen. I will hit on communication with the 116 California Community Colleges, 73 districts, and 1.8 million students within our California system.

What do you see as the major issues and activities relating to community college students that should be considered by CCCT in the next year?

Significant issues and activities relating to community college students that CCCT should consider in the next year are the disparities in graduation rates of students from marginalized groups and increasing student voter engagement and empowerment.

What do you feel you can contribute in these areas?

I realize that equity and equality are not the same thing. I will prioritize communicating with community colleges throughout the state to address inequities that may hinder students from graduating. I will use my knowledge of AB963 to help fellow student leaders boost student voter engagement and empowerment.

COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT ACTIVITIES

I am very engaged on my community college campus. I am the treasurer for my college's Black Student Union and am the club historian for the Art Club. Additionally, I founded and am president of the Social Science Club at my college. I am also a member of the Umoja Community and the Phi Theta Kappa Honors Society. Also, I will be working as a student outreach ambassador for the 2022-2023 school year.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ACTIVITIES

Last year I was the Executive Vice President of my college's student government association, the Associated Students of Sierra College (ASSC). As the Executive Vice President, I was highly engaged on campus with peers, fellow ASSC members, as well as student leaders from other community colleges. I was appointed and served as the SSSCC Delegate for my college. Through that position, I advocated for and voted on initiatives to address community college student concerns at the local and statewide levels. Additionally, I am a member of my region's SSSCC Legislative Affairs Committee. I was also a student representative on my college's Student Equity and Completion and Facilities Master Plan committees.

This past year I had the ideas of having a mental health awareness week as well as creating a student clothing closet on campus. The mental health week was very successful and was "cohosted" by student clubs in an effort to increase student engagement in club activities. Mental health matters, and I am very proud to have had the ability to start a mental health week that will now be held annually and will continuously support my fellow students. I am currently in the process of working with my college to create a clothing closet on campus. I realized from looking at student comments on our college's app and Discord that having clothing in addition to the college's food bank would be extremely helpful to increase student equity and success. Clothes are expensive, especially what is considered "business attire." I look forward to the clothing closet opening in the fall.

CIVIC AND COMMUNITY ACTIVITIES

I have participated in many AB963 and student voter engagement and empowerment summits that have given me excellent knowledge and resources to help move forward voter empowerment efforts on my campus. Outside of college, I like to volunteer at my local food bank and SPCA.

OTHER

As a student leader at my college, I prioritize being the backbone of support to my peers and effectively communicating their concerns until they are addressed. As the CCCT student trustee, I would do the same. When an issue arises, I will work with whoever brought up the concern and help address it to the fullest extent possible. I will be a leader of support who actively communicates the student voice. The diversity of students at community colleges is a highly unique element. I acknowledge every community college's unique perspectives and issues and am incredibly open to helping address those concerns. My goal in this position would be to help make the California Community College experience as enjoyable and valuable as possible. As CCCT Student Trustee, I would work diligently to execute that goal.
