

Funding Opportunity to Enhance Employment and Training Programs

Eligibility

Your college or organization may be eligible if:

- It provides non-federally funded employment and training services, such as employment assessments, case management, educational programs, work readiness training, apprenticeships, internships, job placement, supportive services, and more.
- It provides those non-federally funded services to low-income individuals currently receiving or eligible for CalFresh (food stamp) benefits.

Fresh Success can help fund supportive services such as:

- Transportation
- Textbooks and course supplies
- Testing fees
- Dependent care
- Emergency utility payments

...and much more

About

California Community Colleges and nonprofit organizations may be eligible to participate in Fresh Success, a CalFresh Employment and Training program. Fresh Success allows your campus or organization to receive partial federal reimbursement for employment and training activities provided to CalFresh recipients.

Federal funding can help your campus or organization expand and enhance its existing services, improve food security, and support participants on their paths to self-sufficiency.

Bring Fresh Success to Your Campus or Organization

Fresh Success provides tools, training, and technical assistance to support successful program launch and ongoing implementation.
